

Effective Communication in Marriage

Seminars:

Listening and Communication in Marriage

Most people know that communication is essential in a good marriage, but how are you supposed to communicate when your spouse just doesn't seem to understand you? If you often hear or say things like "you aren't listening to me" or "you just don't understand" when trying to talk with your spouse, come to this workshop on listening and communication in marriage.

Resolving Conflict in Marriage*

How do you handle your marital conflicts? Verbal attack, high pitch screaming, or the silent treatment will never help. A well-solved conflict can strengthen your marriage and increase trust and unity between you and your spouse. Learn how to identify your conflict patterns and to explore constructive ways to resolve conflict in your marriage.

 This seminar to be presented in Chinese.*

Speakers: Rebekah Wang M.S., LMFT
Lydia Teh M.A., LAPC

Date: August 26, 2006 (Saturday)

Time: 1:00 — 4:00 p.m.

Venue: ACCCN Children's Worship Hall
Atlanta Chinese Christian Church North
5055 Morton Road, Alpharetta, GA 30022

FREE
SEMINARS

An ACCESS Seminar sponsored by
Atlanta Chinese Christian Church North

Registration Form

Name: _____

Tel: _____

Spouse's Name: _____

Email: _____

Address: _____

Church: _____

Please mail this form to: ACCESS, Inc., 2000 Clearview Ave., Ste 205, Doraville, GA 30340 or register by phone 770-986-0800 or by e-mail info@asianchristiancounseling.org